

BALMA is a consulting company based in Valencia, Spain offering our services to institutions and individuals involved in projects of advanced design. We provide drafting, design and implementation of projects within the natural environment, assuring quality by providing effective solutions which help to increase excellence to our customers. The application of the most advanced technology and the best customer service is what differentiates us from other consulting and engineering firms

INTERNATIONAL STRATEGY

BALMA Consulting will achieve its international strategy by two key strengths:

- the skills and capacity for international cooperation and knowledge sharing
- creating, growing and developing more innovative elements for a knowledge-based society

We seek to expand both domestic and international partnerships in research and development for environmental matters

RESEARCH + DEVELOPMENT + INNOVATION

The strategic investment from the EU in R&D, go through the mandatory collaboration between research (universities, research institute and technology centers) and business. Thus since it's inception R&D has had a practical approach for the results application

BALMA Consulting has been involved in action COST projects, in LIFE + projects and in projects under the 7th Framework Program of the EU. It also maintains active collaboration agreements with various universities and technical institutes for the implementation of technological development projects addressing forest fires and logistics of the supply of biomass, etc

Services

We offer collaboration and partnership with universities and research institutes in order to develop their activities of R&D in the field of environment

PRODUCTS TRADE AND DISTRIBUTION

BALMA Consulting maintains an extensive network of contacts in the forestry and environmental sector of Spain. This network contains an extensive range of roles (forest owners, farmers, engineers of various disciplines, etc). Therefore we become the ideal partner for many production distributions

Services

We are looking for partners for the distribution of forest products (technology, software, machinery, etc) in Spain. And through our suitable contacts we have the capacity to introduce products from the rest of the world especially to South America and Mediterranean countries

ENVIRONMENTAL CONSULTING

BALMA Consulting accumulates a broad experience on design and implementation of environmental projects. Some of the fields where we have strong experience are:

- Natural resources management plans
- Landscape restoration projects
- GIS studies applied to land use planning
- Biomass logistics optimization
- LIDAR applications in forestry

Due to our in-depth experience in forestry, we can provide you with a complete set of tailored services in all areas of the forest value chain

Services

We are specialized on environment and natural resources management and projects, from strategic planning to project implementation

COOPERATION FOR DEVELOPMENT

The Millennium Development Goals of the United Nations consider the development of forestry as a tool for progress towards poverty eradication. Indeed, in developing countries, rural societies are heavily dependent on forests for their livelihood and improving their living conditions. Therefore BALMA Consulting acquires international cooperation for development as one of its key business areas

Services

We offer our experience in the field of environmental consultancy and technology applied to this field, through training, technological transfer and assistance to developing countries
